DETAILED ACTION

Receipt is acknowledged of Applicant's Request for Continued Examination, Amendment, and Information Disclosure Statement filed on 03/16/2010.

- Claim 1 has been amended.
- Claims 1-4 are pending in the instant application.

Continued Examination Under 37 CFR 1.114

A request for continued examination under 37 CFR 1.114, including the fee set forth in 37 CFR 1.17(e), was filed in this application after final rejection. Since this application is eligible for continued examination under 37 CFR 1.114, and the fee set forth in 37 CFR 1.17(e) has been timely paid, the finality of the previous Office action has been withdrawn pursuant to 37 CFR 1.114. Applicant's submission filed on 03/16/2010 has been entered.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

The following is a quotation of the second paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall conclude with one or more claims particularly pointing out and distinctly claiming the subject matter which the applicant regards as his invention.

Claim 1 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention, pertaining to the term "gelling agents", is withdrawn in view of Applicant's cancellation of the terms.

Note, Applicant argument pertaining "gelling agent" is moot since the term "gelling agent" has been cancelled.

However, upon further consideration of Applicant's Amendment, a new ground(s) of rejection is made as discussed below.

The following is a quotation of the second paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall conclude with one or more claims particularly pointing out and distinctly claiming the subject matter which the applicant regards as his invention.

Claim 1 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention.

It is unclear what the phrase of "material used for converting the composition into a gel and to render it bioadhesive" would encompass. Applicant provides no list of common gelling agents, or what formula would constitute a "material used for converting the composition into a gel and to render it bioadhesive". states that "example [such as hydroxyethylcellulose, acrylic or methacrylic acid polymers, chitosan, and polycarbophil] at p. 1 of the specification, are provided as non-limiting examples of gelling agents" provide no standard for ascertaining what are the "material used for converting the composition into a gel and to render it bioadhesive" would encompass, and one of ordinary skill in the art would not be reasonably apprised of the scope of the term "material used for converting the composition into a gel and to render it bioadhesive". Therefore, one would not know what are the metes and bounds of the claims.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

Claim 1, 3 and 4 rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by ARKIN et al (US 2003/0039704) are maintained for reasons of record in the previous office action filed on 04/14/2009, 12/16/2009 and as discussed below.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 1-4 rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over ARKIN et al (US 2003/0039704) are maintained for reasons of record in the previous office action filed on 04/14/2009, 12/16/2009 and as discussed below.

Response to Arguments

Applicant argues that that the claim is now directed to a mucoadhesive vaginal composition in the form of an aqueous bioadhesive gel adapted for the delivery of at least one of active ingredients and principles. The Arkin et al. reference is directed to pharmaceutical preparations adopted for topical administration that are effective for treating rosacea. As is well known to those of at least ordinary skill in the relevant art, rosacea is a specific pathology affecting the skin, and not the mucosa. The Arkin reference thus does not teach, or even suggest any bioadhesive/mucoadhesive formulations in that, as pointed above, the condition which the compositions disclosed in the subject reference are designed to treat are conditions of the skin (i.e., rosacea) and not the mucosa.

The Examiner finds this argument unpersuasive, because Applicant's claims recite a composition, and the intended use recited in the preamble would reasonably appear not to be a claim limitation. "If the claim preamble, when read in the context of the entire claim, recites limitations of the claim, or, if the claim preamble is 'necessary to give life, meaning, and vitality' to the claim, then the claim preamble should be construed as if in the balance of the claim...If, however, the body of the claim fully and intrinsically sets forth the complete invention, including all of its limitations, and the preamble offers no distinct definition of any of the claimed invention's limitations, but rather merely states, for example, the purpose or intended use of the invention, then the preamble is of no significance to claim construction because it cannot be said to constitute or explain a claim limitation." Pitney Bowes, Inc. v. Hewlett Packard Co., 182 F.3d 1298, 1305, 51 USPQ2d 1161, 1165-66 (Fed. Cir. 1999).

Art Unit: 1618

Thus, the intended use of "mucoadhesive vaginal" in the composition claims is met by the prior art, because the prior art compositions would be at least capable of performing said use.
